SIXTH FORM BULLETIN - VOLUME 3

Friday 18th October 2024

Message from Mr Edwards, Director of Sixth Form

Well done to all of our Year 13s who have conducted themselves impeccably during this weeks Trial Exams, we hope that all of your hard work will pay off when you receive your results after half-term. Attendance for both year groups this half-term has been excellent and congratulations to the many students who continue to have 100% attendance. Please remember as our research has shown good attendance has a direct link to good outcomes in terms of your final grades. Well done to all of those students who have completed their UCAS applications and remember we advise that you complete your applications early so that you can focus on your studies. Enjoy your half-term break, please rest and spend quality time with friends and family. See you after half term.

Message from Miss Parr, Head of Year 13

What a first half term! It feels like it has gone by really quickly but at the same time gone on forever. After all your preparation for your TES exams hopefully you are beginning to master your subjects, and really get to grips with which revision techniques work best for you. You've tried your best, and we will be able to support you regardless of the outcome.

Congratulations to everyone who got their UCAS application in for the early deadline. I can't wait to hear about all the offers and interviews you will start to receive.

Come back rested and re-energized ready to get the remaining UCAS applications sent off, and applications in for future employment and apprenticeships.

I hope you get to spend the half term break doing things that you enjoy and spending time with your favourite people.

Message from Mr Cook, Head of Year 12

Autumn half-term is one of my favourite times of the year. Late October sees foliage in its peak autumn colour, and so in my time away from work, I can usually be found walking stretches of the Kent Downs, revelling in the natural display. However you spend your break, I'd encourage you to recharge and renew connections with friends and family. Take some time to do the things that matter to you, whatever your hobbies or interests, especially if they've taken a backseat due to the demands of your studies. I'd advise you also to take some time to reflect on the past couple of months. This is a great pitstop in your sixth form journey, and a chance to look back over what you've done so far and organise yourself, ready for a busy stretch before Christmas. Take a while to make sure your notes are in order and that you've filled any gaps in your understanding. Please believe me that future you will thank you for it.

Economics Society Update

10th October 2024:

"This week during Economics Society we debated whether an increase in taxation would be good for the UK economy.

Around 40 students showed up and we split them into 6 tables with half agreeing with the statement whilst the other half disagreed with the statement.

Some amazing points were made by the year 12 students, for example 'An increase in tax on excise duties like sugar would lead to lower consumption of an unhealthy demerit good, therefore this may lead to an improvement in the public health of the UK. This, in turn, creates less demand for healthcare services - lowering their burden - and improves work ethic within society.'

Overall, this was an incredibly productive lunch-time with many Year 12 students opting to stay in Economics Society for the foreseeable future."

Harry Westworth 13G, Founding member of Economics Society

7th October 2024:

"As a Year 12 student who joined the school this year, I find the Economist Society to be a highly intriguing way to engage with global issues.

Each week, we debate universally relevant topics—for instance, this week we discussed whether the UK should rejoin the EU and whether housing projects should be initiated within green belt areas, exploring their potential impact on the economy and living standards. These debates, split between groups, encourage us to understand diverse perspectives, remain open-minded, and stay informed about current events. I find it fascinating to see how differently people develop their arguments and challenge opposing viewpoints. Even if Economics isn't one of your subjects, I have seen students who don't study it come to enjoy the discussions and meet new people."

Daniel Milanesi, Year 12 Economist

A special shout out to Aryan Singh and Oliver Arratoon for putting together superb Economics bulletins.

Mr Gallagher

Business Studies and Economics Department (Room 557)

LPSB kicked off our Black History Month Celebrations with whole school assemblies lead by Pearl Apaw, Finley Holness, Aryan Singh, Devon Tulloch and Zara Uzokwe; who are all members of our 6th form African Caribbean Society (ACS). The theme for this year's National Black History Month is 'Reclaiming Narratives' so during our assemblies, students and staff were taught about stories of black people who have been ignored, sidelined or never heard of; and encouraged to reflect on the importance of remembering and retelling stories. For instance, Yvonne Conolly who was United Kingdom's first female Black Headteacher in 1969; and John Edmonstone who was born enslaved in Guyana, travelled to Scotland and became the very teacher that taught Charles Darwin taxidermy which helped develop his theory of Evolution.

On Friday 11th October, members of the Sixth Form African Caribbean Society hosted the brilliant 'Changemakers' panel discussion. Pearl Apaw, Kia Mohammedi and Devon Tulloch were highly impressive with their questioning. The panel included some inspirational black people from various industries:

Sayce Holmes Lewis, CEO of Mentivity

Sasha McBean, CEO of Healing Hands Counselling

Shannon Walker— PR Consultant and founder of Social Disruption

Charlie Ogbechie - Artist Development Lead – SoundCloud

Saschan Fearon-Joseph -

To find out more about the Sixth Form African Caribbean Society please talk to Miss Omishola in the Geography Department—Room 307
